Headteacher's news:

School partial re-opening: Week 2

I hope this finds you safe, well and ... dry!

We have safely navigated our way through the second week since the partial re-opening of school and it continues to be working well. The children, parents and staff have been vigilantly following the strategy plan. I think that word among the school community about the success of the re-opening is spreading. We have seen an increase in enquiries this week from parents whose children are in the priority groups as well as the key worker groups asking about placements. We have been able to respond positively to some of these requests but, due to capacity, we have had to consider each case carefully. The Risk Assessment (especially Control 12: Social Distancing) is crucial to this process; if we can't add anymore pupils to the groups, it is because we don't have the space in the classrooms.

We continue to respond to DfE and Local Authority guidance and the announcement earlier this week about the delayed return for all pupils until September is going to present us with more challenges in the weeks ahead. I do not know what this will look like and it is hard to plan when the DfE doesn't have a plan and the LA doesn't have a plan as yet because it is waiting for some direction from the government.

So ... at this time, I need to ask that we continue to operate as we are doing. For the families whose children have not attended school since 23 March, we are all thinking about you and your children and we are very grateful for the educational and emotional support you continue to provide. The SLT is working on the class plans and 'keeping in touch/ transition arrangements' for September 2020 based on the assumption that we will be open to everyone and I will communicate these plans with you in due course. Teachers are working on End of Year Reports and these will be sent out before the end of the Summer Term too.

Take care and stay safe.
